

PARUL SOOD

Parul has been involved in the waste sector, and in WasteMINZ specifically, for nearly 20 years. She has held a number of key roles at councils in the Auckland region pre-amalgamation, and then at Auckland Council from 2010 onwards. She has built a productive waste team at Auckland Council and is one of many women illustrating what strong collaborative leadership looks like in the waste sector and is someone for younger women entering the sector to look up to.

Parul has held a number of key roles at WasteMINZ and delivers these very effectively alongside her roles at Auckland Council; including most recently as a member of the WasteMINZ board and now chair.
